

Read the Trib first. ONLINE EDITION
Mail Tribune

LOCAL

July 10, 2005

Allow personal accounts

As a current retiree receiving Social Security, I am thankful for the benefits I receive. Recently, I have become interested in the debate concerning how we can help preserve Social Security for future generations, and I want my children and grandchildren to have more opportunities and options when they reach retirement.

This is why I believe Congress must reform the system to allow for voluntary personal accounts. These accounts would allow those I love to build a nest egg for retirement that they would own and could pass on to future generations.

People often say they want their children and grandchildren to be better off than they were, and with a personal accounts plan they can be. — Robert Grover, Brookings