

Thursday, July 28, 2005

Letters to the Editor

Social Security personal accounts make sense

I am concerned about the current situation with Social Security, with more people retiring and fewer workers to support them, the system is headed toward financial ruin.

I am retired and have 10 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren, and I want them to be secure in their retirement.

I support the idea of personal retirement accounts for younger people. These accounts would be voluntary, so people could decide for themselves whether they wanted to participate or if they would rather remain in the current system.

The system needs to be modernized to meet the needs of future retirees and I believe voluntary personal accounts are the most viable solution.

Marjorie Kraxberger

Canby